

If You're Not Being Confronted by Your Clients, You're Doing It Wrong

Successfully Managing Tension in Your Counseling Sessions

What's Old is New Again!

No PowerPoint in this workshop! We're gonna kick it old school by relying on the techniques of the past: Talking with each other!

This workshop will be incredibly interactive chockful of conversation, activities, and plenty of "confrontation role plays."

Our first objective will teach us:

Confrontation IS NOT Conflict!

Do you know the difference between conflict and confrontation? If you do, do your clients? If you don't, how do you teach your clients the difference?

Then we'll learn to embrace the "bad guy":

Every Hero is Only as Good as Their Antagonist!
Would Sherlock Holmes be Sherlock without Moriarty?
Would Wolverine have as much fun without Sabretooth?

Lastly (after plenty of snacks and stretching breaks), we'll gain confidence trusting:

Confrontation is Conflict Resolution in Disguise
Go from a scared Chihuahua to a sturdy German Shepard.
Soon, you'll be eager to play with confrontation like a chew toy!
